IMPACT. CHANGE.

Public Justice seeks a communications intern for summer 2017 to assist our team with significant communications and messaging projects related to our cutting-edge legal advocacy work. The intern will work from our national headquarters in Washington, DC. Public Justice pursues high impact lawsuits to combat social and economic injustice, protect the Earth's sustainability, and challenge predatory corporate conduct and government abuses.

Our communications team is small – just 3 people – which means our interns have an opportunity to do substantial and interesting work while developing important skills in messaging, writing and digital communications.

This is a paid internship, with a $1500 stipend for the summer. Interns will work a minimum 3 days (or 24 hours) per week, for a minimum of eight weeks. The start and end dates are flexible.

Your portfolio of work will include:

- Creating and editing website content on our Wordpress site, including writing news features about our cases, and profiles of our members and allies
- Assisting in the development of strategic messaging for our diverse constituencies and working with communications staff to calendar and distribute content to various audiences
- Helping monitor and create analytics reports on Public Justice website and social media content
- Contributing to Public Justice's social media platforms, and researching new social media channels and strategies

This is an ideal internship for rising college junior or senior considering a career in nonprofit advocacy or political communications. Candidates should have strong writing and editing skills, a drive to help make great public interest lawsuits happen, and be willing to bring an enthusiasm to representing our organization. Experience with HTML, Wordpress, and Constant Contact preferred.

How to apply: Please submit a résumé, cover letter, and at least one writing sample to aoshea@publicjustice.net with the subject line "Communications Intern".
