

FOOD PROJECT ASSOCIATE ATTORNEY
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Public Justice, a non-profit legal advocacy organization that pursues high impact lawsuits to combat social and economic injustice, protect the Earth's sustainability, and challenge predatory corporate conduct and government abuses, is seeking to hire a litigator with up to five years of experience for an Associate Attorney position in our Food Project. The Food Project at Public Justice combines litigation with education and advocacy to reform the industrial animal agriculture and support a more sustainable and humane food production system. The position is based in our Washington D.C. office and is open immediately. Because Public Justice handles litigation, education, and advocacy nationally, the position will likely entail significant travel.

The Food Project at Public Justice takes a multifaceted approach to build power and achieve a just, humane, sustainable, and regenerative animal agriculture system. In our lawsuits, we represent farmers, rural communities, consumers, and workers who share our vision. In our advocacy, we spread awareness of the systemic inequities that have allowed this corporate takeover of our food system and show policymakers and the public how they can support a return to farming focused on sustaining communities rather than extracting profit.

The Associate Attorney will report to and work closely with Food Project staff and will also work collaboratively with Public Justice's other attorneys, outside lawyers who support Public Justice's work, and other public interest groups to further the project's goals. The Associate Attorney will also work on educating attorneys and advocates on how to use the legal system to challenge industry misconduct.

Responsibilities:

- Work closely with Food Project Staff Attorneys and clients to support their litigation, including investigating, developing, and prosecuting cases. In working with the Staff Attorneys on developing and maintaining their dockets the Associate Attorney will participate in the full range of tasks involved in complex litigation, including factual investigation, legal research and analysis, discovery, briefing, and oral advocacy.
- Develop and engage in legal advocacy outside of court based on the ways in which the litigation intersects with policymaking and base building, including drafting and reviewing legislation; drafting rulemaking petitions, comments to agencies, letters, fact sheets and other materials; and, participating in coalition meetings and events.
- Help manage our case intake process and provide potential clients with resources.
- Help build and train a network of private attorneys who are challenging corporate misconduct in industrial animal agriculture, including developing materials designed to educate members of the public and the bar.

- Other advocacy work to further the priorities of the Food Project at Public Justice.

Qualifications:

- Law school graduate with up to five years of relevant legal experience.
- Preference given to applicants with at least two years of litigation experience. For the purposes of determining litigation experience, we will include clerkships and fellowships.
- Admission to a State Bar.
- Excellent analytical, legal research, and writing skills
- Excellent communication and public speaking skills.
- Self-motivation and proven ability to work as part of a team.
- Strong work ethic, initiative, and sound, yet creative judgment.
- Willingness to travel extensively, meaning as much as once to twice a month more than half of the year.
- Sensitivity to the needs and concerns of and the ability to work with individuals and groups from diverse cultures, backgrounds and orientations.
- A strong desire to build a movement to achieve a more just food system.
- Contributes to the creation of a diverse, equitable, and inclusive work community that encourages collaboration.

We offer a mission-focused work environment, a teamwork and community-oriented approach, and a competitive compensation package, including excellent benefits. Our attorneys are paid on a salary scale based on years out of law school. The salary for this position will be between $55,000-$70,000, depending on experience.

Public Justice is an equal opportunity employer and values a diverse and progressive workplace. Women, people of color, LGBTQ applicants, people with disabilities and veterans are all strongly encouraged to apply.

To Apply: Interested candidates should submit a:

- Cover letter that conveys why you are drawn to Public Justice's mission and what makes you a good fit for the Food Project.
- Resume.
- Law school transcript (official or unofficial).
- Contact information for three references.
- Writing sample, preferably a legal brief or memorandum that is either unedited or only lightly edited by someone other than you. Please include a cover sheet explaining the extent of editing by someone else.

Your application should consist of two electronic files: (1) your cover letter, resume, transcript, and references in a single .pdf file; and (2) a writing sample in another .pdf file. Applications will be reviewed starting on May 1, 2020, on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Please submit both files to staffattorney@publicjustice.net.
